BibTeX and BibLaTeX styles catalogue for LyX

John R Hudson

27th January 2024

Preface

This catalogue groups the BibTeX styles and the BibLaTeX styles contained in the 2023 TeXLive distribution by their main characteristics; styles are presented in reverse date order within each group, with undated styles at the end of each group. The appendices list the various styles that can be used with LaTeX rather than LyX and also those styles which, not being intended for use with specific LaTeX packages, did not work under LyX 2.4, some because they need additional packages installed.

Note that, when using BibTeX,

- some styles will work both with or without `natbib` but `natbib` has been listed only where it is essential

- not all styles appear in the LyX BibTeX Bibliography dialog; some have to be accessed by browsing to `~/texmf/bibtex/bst/`

- CJK styles are not considered and some styles may not be included in the default package installed on your computer

- this catalogue does not cover all the differences between styles but has been produced in the hope that it will enable people to narrow their searches for specific styles.

Note that the BibLaTeX styles with a name starting `ext-` do not appear to generate citations or references set differently from the same ones without `ext-`; so they have not been listed in this catalogue.

B. Styles not tested

B.1. Abstyles

The adaptable family of styles were developed in 1992 to enable non-English languages references; they require `apreambl.tex` to be present to run and so have not been tested. Hans Hermann-Bode has written some `.bib` files (`acompat.bib`, `jourabbr.bib` and `jourfull.bib`) that contain compatibility commands for this family.
